A pad of watercolor paper- This can be the cheapest version available as we will use it to create swatches of mixed colors, color schemes

A pad of Canvas paper

Oil Paints- Kits are fine, but if you choose to purchase individual tubes of color, please include these:

- Titanium white
- Ivory black
- Cadmium Red
- Permanent Alizarin Crimson
- Ultramarine Blue
- Pthalo Blue
- Cadmium Yellow
- Lemon Yellow

Optional additional colors: Yellow Ochre, Burnt Sienna, Burnt Umber

Firm Bristle Paint Brushes- Please select one or two small, medium, and large round brushes, as well as flathead brushes

Palette- A palette is any surface on which you can mix your paint. I prefer to use a covered palette which preserves paint for longer use. You want a palette big enough to mix all your colors on

Turpentine or Odorless Turpenoid- I will go over the differences between these two products to inform your preference, but both are paint solvents/thinners (Avoid a product called "Turpenoid Natural")

Linseed Oil- This is a counter to paint thinner. Linseed oil increases the transparency of paint as well as the fluidity, while maintaining the paint's oil base.

Glass Jar- This will hold our solvent. You may want to purchase one with a metal coil inside to help clean brushes. Bring an extra empty, sealable jam jar as well.

Palette Knife- If you prefer to mix your colors with brushes, that is fine.
Rags- Used for cleaning/drying brushes

Painting Clothes- These are clothes you don't mind getting paint on Canvas- Canvas boards are very economical but you may want to choose a stretched canvas. The stretched canvases one can purchase at art stores are already primed and ready to paint on. If you are stretching your own canvas, you will need to prime with an acrylic gesso.

Easel- This can be free standing or a tabletop easel depending on the size of the canvas you would like to work on

*Optional: Master's Oil Paint Brush Cleaner- excellent for cleaning brushes without the hassle
